Miss Orpha, as she is familiarly and affectionately called, is one of the historic characters of LaFayette. As a small lass she came into the town with her father in 1850, and from that day, now 82 years, she has been intimately acquainted with, and associated with the life of the town. She is able to recall much of our antebellum history, but on the exciting and distressing times of the Civil War her recollection is most accurate and acute. Naturally possessed of an alert and receptive intellect, she is able to recall many historic occurrences of her long life and discuss them with great intelligence. For almost half a century she and her sister, Miss Linn, presided as hostesses at the “Center House,” a hostelry, noted for its home-like surroundings and its culinary attractions. During these many years, Miss Orpha, the gracious hostess that she was, probably entertained more court officials, high and low, as well as travelling men than any other person in the county.

In 1925 she had the misfortune to fall from her steps and sustained a broken hip. Being at that time about 85 years of age and of heavy build, it was feared that she might not survive the accident; but while she has been confined to her bed for these seven years she is still hale and hearty and bids fair to reach the century mark, as all her admirers and well-wishers pray may be the case. As an example of the love and esteem in which she is held the ladies of the Baptist church of which she is a member named one of their missionary societies in her honor, The Orpha Center Circle.

GARMANY.

Hamilton Garmany was one of three brothers who migrated from Scotland about the year 1800. Hamilton settled in Gwinnette county, Georgia, where he reared a family of five children, one of whom, William Newton, later came with his father, Hamilton, to Walker county and settled in McLemore's Cove before the Civil War. Wash, another son, also came with his father to the county.

William Newton, born 1828, married Addie Knox, to which union were born ten children, as follows: Mary Brooks; Maggie Scudder; Emma Wyatt; Ida Connally; Lula Hall; Hampton, married Nola Bonds; Knox, married Eula Jennings; Robert married Julia Jones; Clark married Splint Davis; John, died young. For more than fifty years, William Newton Garmany lived in the Cove, reared and educated this large family, and was one of the most influential and prominent farmers of that section. He owned one of the finest farms in the Cove, still known as the Garmany farm. He died in 1912 at the age of 84.

Robert Garmany, born 1861, married Julia (born 1861), daughter of L. W. and Mary (McCleary) Jones. In this home were born the following children: Perry, married Margaret Betts. In 1902 he was elected sheriff of the county and moved to LaFayette where he has since resided, reared and educated his family. For 14 years he served the county as sheriff, longer by several years than any other officer has held that important position, since the organization of the county. Mr. Garmany, now rapidly advancing in years, is still quite active and takes great interest in life's affairs. He is one of the county's loyal and much respected citizens.

JOHN M. CLARKSON.

It is not known when John Clarkson came from England to America. Among other children he had a son, Joseph, born 1792 in North Carolina, who married Nancy Gober, born 1794. Their children were John, William, James, Wesley, Martha, Mary, Nancy, Harriet, Dan, and Green. With this large family Joseph came into McLe- more's Cove in the early thirties while the Indians were still occupying this region.

James H. (1819-1884), married Jane Hammond (1821-1884), and their children were William, John M., Elizabeth, July A., Sarah A., Cicero, Roxanna, Jerome, Albina, and Ova. John M. grew to manhood on his father's farm and when about 19 years of age enlisted in the Southern Confederacy and followed the "Stars and Bars" to the surrender. He had a brother, William, and an uncle, Dan, who met death at the hands of the Gatewood raiders. After the war he settled in Duck Creek valley and reared and educated a large family of children. Mr. Clarkson is now hale and hearty at the age of 90 years. He is a worthy and highly respected citizen and bids fair to round out a century which all his friends devoutly wish he may do. He makes his home with his son, Lee, near Chickamauga.

NEWTON WHITE.

William White, a soldier of the Revolution, lies buried at the White cemetery one mile east of Villanow. His grave was marked by the D. A. R. some twenty years ago. It is said that following the Revolution, in some forgotten manner, Mr. White received a blow on the head with a blunt instrument or weapon which caused a pressure on the brain and which was never relieved, causing him, to the end of his days, to be wanting in mentality. The official marker erected by the D. A. R. bears the single name “Wm. White.”

Newton White was a son of William White. He was born in South Carolina August 11, 1798. His first wife was Edna Cooper, who died in 1848. His second wife was Sarah A. Bolt, who died in 1890. Newton died 1889 and is buried in the White cemetery. He was one of the pioneer settlers of the county.

Augustus P. White, son of Newton, was born near Villanow July 30, 1851, and is now in his 81st year. His first wife was Sereptia Harris, who died in 1873; his second wife was Cordelia Harmon who is still in life.

THE CHAMBERS FAMILY.

This family lived in England during the political and religious disturbances of the 17th century. Dissenting from the Church of England, they emigrated to Scotland, thence to Ireland about 1700. Being protestants they did not like the catholicism of the Irish, and longing for religious freedom they migrated to America and settled at Chambersburgh, Penn., and after a time branches of the family scattered to the South and West.

Early in the 19th century Elihu Chambers and son William removed from Haywood county, N. C., to Habersham county, Ga. Elihu had fought through the Revolutionary war including the battle of King’s Mountain. William served as a soldier of the War of 1812, later in the Mexican War, and assisted General Winfield Scott in the removal of the Cherokees from North Georgia. William was born in Haywood county, N. C., in 1792. He married an excellent young woman named Jane Hughes, to which union were born the following: Samuel H., Joseph W., Gabriel J., William A., Albert and Margaret.

William owned and operated gold mines in Habersham county, later moving to Whitfield county, and thence to Walker county, where he settled near Villanow immediately preceding the War Between the States. Here the family lived during that fratricidal strife and for several years afterward. He was living with his son Gabriel when he died at Morganville, Dade county, in 1882, in his 91st year.

Samuel, Joseph and Albert sacrificed their lives for the Southern Confederacy. Gabriel was most severely wounded while making a charge to take Little Round Top at Gettysburg. Samuel, Albert and Margaret never married. Margaret died at her brother Gabriel’s, at Morganville, in 1878. Joseph had a daughter, Mary, who married John Hill at Subligna, Ga., who went to Oklahoma.

Gabriel married Miss Fannie Tittle, daughter of George Tittle of Dade county. Their family consists of Prentice C., Custer L., Roscoe D., Sadie, Monta, and Blande, all living in California except Sadie who married Hal Patton, a mechanical draughtsman, who lives in Cleveland, Ohio. Blande is also married. Gabriel was an exemplary citizen, whose memory is sacred to this writer. He died in Chattanooga in 1909.

William Adams Chambers was born in Habersham county, Ga., January 26, 1832. He was living at Villanow, Walker county, when the War Between the States broke out, where he volunteered, joining Co. C 8th Ga. Bat. Inf. He served as first sergeant of his company through the war, acting at times as captain. He was in the numerous campaigns of Joseph E. Johnston in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, and with General Bragg at Missionary Ridge and other battles. Sixty-four of his company went into the Chickamauga battle and thirty-two came out,—a fifty per cent loss. He and his comrades and close personal friend, Cicero T. Clements, brother of Hon. Judson C. Clements, were captured near Atlanta during the fighting of that campaign and were carried to Indiana by their captors. Near the end of the war William A. taught school near Jeffersonville, Indiana, in a community of Southern sympathisers, or copperheads, as they were called.

Shortly after the war he returned to Georgia and taught school at Morganville, Dade county, where he was married to Miss Sarah Queen Tittle, daughter of George and Sallie Hale Tittle, whose family consisted of Mary, Didama, Bettie, Charles, Martha, Kizziah, Sarah, Annie, David, Fannie, Susannah, Nannie, and George Washington and Andrew Jackson, twins, who died in infancy. George Tittle emigrated from Virginia and Sallie Hale, his wife, from Tennessee. He was owner of a large plantation in Dade county which he cultivated with slave labor, being a most successful farmer in his day. He was somewhat deaf and was killed by an A. G. S. train near his home in 1866. His wife passed in 1877.

William A. Chambers was teacher, farmer, merchant, postmaster, and Justice of the Peace. He belonged to the Masonic fraternity. He was the only master of his local Grange, and only president of his local Farmer's Alliance Lodge. He was a typical Southern gentleman. His wife, Sarah Tittle (1847-1913), was a woman of rare personality and attainments, who, in the language of a friend, was "every inch a lady." William A. and his wife were married in 1868; his death occurred in 1913. His children were as follows: Charles A., Oscar N., W. D. B., Colquitt, Paul, Joseph E., James B., Philip, Nellie, Grace and Lily.

John McInness was a Confederate soldier, serving under General Joseph Wheeler, and a successful farmer. His wife was a teacher and active in church and club work. The family of Charles A. and his wife consists of J. W., Trudeau G., Queen Madge, Iva J., and Elsie G.

Oscar N. married Miss Dora Ingle, daughter of John and Mollie Morrison Ingle. Their children are: Bee, Ennis, Glenn, Foy and Jamie. Oscar was a teacher and successful lawyer, having graduated with first honors in the University of Chattanooga Law School. He died 1928.

MILLCAN.

Thomas J. Millican was born in Alabama in 1850. He was left an orphan when a small lad, being cared for by his grandfather, Wm. Millican, till his death during the Civil war. He came to the county during the fifties and during the war and for many years afterward he endured the many hardships incident to those times of deprivation, especially for an orphan boy. During these lean and distressing years Thomas knew what it meant to go without wholesome food at times as well as without sufficient clothing, probably, for this was the common experience of most orphan children of his age and day. By dint of hard study he gained a smattering knowledge of reading and arithmetic which later in life he was able to augment by careful study, so that he became well-informed on general subjects. Early in life he became a member of the Antioch Baptist church which he was faithful to attend and support.

In 1875 he married Mary Savannah, dau. of Alvin and Martha Ann (Hawkins) Leslie. Mr. Leslie came to the county from Hall county and became one of the well-known and well-to-do citizens of the Cove. He was a prominent Mason and Baptist. His death brought sadness to his host of friends by its tragic circumstances—being burned to death in a building in 1911.

Chapter Forty-five

(The following blank pages have been inserted in the county history with the earnest wish of the author that they may be utilized from year to year to make additional records of historical matters as they occur, and thus keep the history up-to-date. Any interesting events in the community life—school, church, graveyard, roads, etc., should be recorded. Likewise, county affairs, as records of county officers, courts, and various other matters. These records should be neatly and correctly made with pen-and-ink. If utilized with care, sufficient space is here to make records for many years).

HAVING visited practically all the graveyards in the county and examined the graves and markers, I hope I may be pardoned for making these observations, not in a spirit of criticism, but from a sincere desire to be of aid in keeping these hallowed spots beautified.

I note that almost every graveyard has cedar trees growing among the graves. So far as I know there is no objection to this tree as a shade or beautifier, except for its influence on the markers. I have noticed almost without exception that markers near a cedar are discolored and rusty and dark; moss growing on many of them. This is true to some extent with other trees, but the cedar seems to be especially detrimental to the appearance of marble. I would suggest that some other tree be made to take the place of the cedar. How would the apple tree do? I have found one cemetery with a number of large apple trees growing among the graves. I thought they looked well. They are clean and beautiful and seem to affect the markers less than other trees.

Most of the cemeteries are in good to fair condition. Occasionally one is found that is not well-kept. Erosion has been at work there as elsewhere and some stones have been undermined and toppled over, some being broken thereby. Some graves are sunken and present an unsightly appearance.

It is interesting, too, to note the changes in the style of markers. Half a century ago the markers were of two or three kinds—the tall slender monument, the thin head slab, or the horizontal slab covering the grave. Most of these are frail and poorly adapted to withstand the changes incident to the passage of time. The tendency now is toward low, heavy or bulky stones. These are much less liable to topple or fall and if once placed with care will remain in position indefinitely.

The custom of erecting a double marker for husband and wife is a beautiful one. This is often done when one of the partners dies, all names and dates being engraved except the date of the death of the one surviving. It is noted that in very many cases this last date is never placed on the marker, which is to be regretted.

labored long and well.—Her works follow her and many rise and call her blessed. ‘He giveth His beloved sleep’." (This is a handsome stone and is most appropriately placed at the resting place of this faithful old teacher. During her life of seventy years, most of them spent in the school room, she wielded a power for good in the young lives of her pupils that lives on and on. Though dead she still speaks through their lives.)

The following inscription is copied from an old rough lime-stone marker exactly as it appears: “Sacred to the Memory of WILLIAM FARISS who died in the year 18 Hundred & 35 in the 85 year of his Age. There is a rare, if solemn, fascination in visiting alone an ancient burying ground and spending some time in serious meditation as one looks at and reads the names and epitaphs graven on the markers. It is easy to imagine one's self as living a century back and acting in the long ago. Surrounded thus by the dead, one may recall some of the beautiful verses of Gray's Elegy so fittingly descriptive of such scenes:
“Oft did the harvest to their sickle yield,
Their furrow oft the stubborn glebe has broke:
How jocund did they drive their team afield!
How bowed the woods beneath their sturdy stroke!

“Perhaps, in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart once pregnant with celestial fire;
Hands, that the rod of empire might have swayed,
Or waked to ecstasy the living lyre:

“Full many a gem of purest ray serene,
The dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear:
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its fragrance on the desert air.

THE EPITAPH.

“Here rests his head upon the lap of Earth,
A youth, to Fortune and to Fame unknown:
Fair Science frowned not at his humble birth,
And Melancholy marked him for her own.

“Large was his bounty, and his soul sincere,
Heaven did a recompense as largely send:
He gave to Misery (all he had) a tear:
He gained from Heaven ('twas all he wished) a Friend.”

"Every year the Father calleth
Some loved one to endless rest,
And the heart, though filled with anguish,
Can but cry, 'He knoweth best.'
But a year not distant, cometh,
When we tread the vast unknown,
We shall find our ransomed loved ones,
Seated round the great white throne."
